Idea from mineplex infinite reach tutorial Protein Arginine Deiminase 4 Protects Against Colitis in an Mice Model by Directing T Cells to the Intestinal Tissue and Improving Intestinal Epithelial Barrier Function. Colitis is a major cause of morbidity and mortality in IBD patients. Protein arginine deiminase 4 (PADI4) is one of the 11 PAD members that play an essential role in pathogenesis of inflammatory and autoimmune diseases. Although PADI4-deficient colitis is known to develop after intraperitoneal injection of dextran sulfate sodium (DSS), the involvement of PADI4 in colitis is largely unclear. In this study, we showed that PADI4-deficient mice were more susceptible to DSS-induced colitis. In addition, PADI4 deficiency led to decreased proliferative capacity and downregulation of the expression of lymphocyte-related molecules on CD8 T cells. Since cells with PADI4 deficiency showed decreased expression of forkhead box P3 (Foxp3), we investigated the association between Foxp3 and PADI4 expression. Notably, PADI4 deficiency reduced the expression of Foxp3 in intestinal tissue and in vivo transferred T

cells, resulting in decreased Foxp3 expression and dysfunctional T cell activity. Furthermore, decreased Foxp3 expression in PADI4-deficient T cells decreased their survival at the site of inflammation. Importantly, we demonstrated that the functional deficiency of PADI4 was due to high nitric oxide (NO) production. Collectively, our study demonstrates that PADI4-deficient T cells are dysfunctional and that the function of PADI4 is dependent on the regulation of Foxp3 and NO production. Help us build a more sustainable future. This November we are donating all proceeds to the #InauguralWomensMarch on Washington, DC. Raise your voices! As of now, the marchers are only expecting 150-200 women, but I am encouraging all of you to support this wonderful project. And yes, you can still donate at-will, too! Donate to this campaign
